Overview

Fifteen Pennsylvania schools are ranked in the 2026 College Free Speech Rankings. The state's average speech-climate grade is F, matching the national average.

Gettysburg College ranks 91 overall and is the top-ranked school in the state. Carnegie Mellon University and Penn State–Main Campus follow closely at 98 and 109, respectively. All three schools hold “yellow light” ratings in FIRE’s Spotlight database, meaning their written policies contain at least one provision that threatens student expression.

Four Pennsylvania schools — Drexel, Lafayette, Villanova, and Haverford — hold “red light” ratings, meaning they maintain at least one policy that clearly and substantially restricts protected expression. Franklin & Marshall and Gettysburg are the only schools that adopted the pro-free speech Chicago Statement. And the University of Pennsylvania is the only school in the state to adopt a statement on institutional neutrality.

With no campus earning a “green light” rating and most scoring poorly, Pennsylvania’s schools have significant room for improvement. Reforming written policies and reinforcing public commitments to expressive rights would help raise the state’s free-speech climate.
